As our aim is to discover deviations from the average surface density we shall assume that the disc is of this density; now the ratio of surface to mean density is and the attraction of an infinite disc of thickness A on a point at the centre of its upper surface is $G \frac{2}{3} \pi A h$. attraction of disc $2 \pi h$, h Hence---. $t = \frac{1}{2} \pi$, $\frac{1}{2} \pi =$ attraction of sphere $f n K \frac{4}{3} \pi R^3$ Therefore taking in account both the increased distance from the centre of the sphere, and the intervening matter we have Thirdly, if the station is situated on a mountain or in a valley, so that there is much deviation from an infinite plain, Orographical correction. a correction sometimes called the topographical, but perhaps preferable the orographical correction must be applied. Clearly if the station is on a peak the attraction of the matter between it and sea-level is less than that of an infinite plain, and the quantity 2 must be diminished; and if it is in a valley with hills surrounding or partially surrounding it, all the matter that stands above the infinite plain exerts an upward attraction, that is, one of opposite sign to 7 therefore in this case also g must be diminished. Representing the orographical correction by O we have therefore Summary of Results. $\frac{1}{2} \pi$, $+ \frac{1}{2} \pi - (4 - r$ The computation of 0 is...
