By Padel, Ruth

Walker & Company, 2006. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "A remarkable chronicle of a two-year trek across 11 countries to visit wild tigers and observe conservation programsThe author provides a plethora of facts and figures about the tigers' plight, reminding us in luminous prose and by evoking the animals and the landscapes they inhabit why this world is worth savingBest savored slowly; a skillful blend of natural history and political analysis, sure to incite controversy in conservation circles." -- Kirkus Reviews , starred review "For the readers who follow along on her two-year journey through 11 countries, the blend of imagery and observation, heartbreak and conservation can be as promising as a glimpse of tawny fur spied through jungle foliage." -- San Francisco Chronicle "Like her ancestor Charles Darwin, British poet Ruth Padel turns to the natural world to make sense of her own humanity. Instead of licking her wounds at the end of a five-year relationship, Padel ventured to India, Tibet, and beyond in search of the elusive, nearly extinct tiger, whose power and mystery, in works by Borges, Blake, and others, had long compelled her. "You cannot plan to see a...
