XXXVI ILLUSTRATED IN THE DOCTRINE OF PERSONAL IMMORTALITY To take a single example, how has Christ really proved himself to be the one great source of faith in immortality, just as he is the great source of our idea of God and of our faith in God What, indeed, in this modern day is the ground of the hope of immortality for most of those who hold it vitally and strongly In simple truth it would seem that the answer to this last question must be that the primary ground of our hope is in Christ, not in philosophy, not in science, not in any other religion. These may or may not seem corroborative. But, in any case, we do not build primarily upon them. They are simply not able to give that certain conviction for which we seek. Harnacks statement upon this point can hardly be doubted: Whatever may have happened at the grave of Christ and in the matter of the appearances, one thing is certain: This grave was the birthplace of the indestructible belief that death is vanquished, that there is a life eternal. It is useless to cite Plato; it is useless to point to the Persian religion, and the ideas and literature of later Judaism. All that would have perished and has perished; but the certainty of the resurrection and of a life eternal which is bound up with the grave in Josephs garden has not perished, and on...
